

LOUISIANA IS LOSING YARDS

A FOOTBALL FIELD OF LAND DISAPPEARS FROM OUR COAST EVERY HOUR.

Let's make this play count.

Over the last century, natural and manmade changes have caused the Mississippi River Delta to collapse. Since the 1930s, about 1,000 square miles of land have disappeared into open water - that's about one football field of land per hour. As our mighty river delta disappears into the Gulf, so do the jobs, wildlife and protection our wetlands provide.

Our next play is our most crucial. Be a part of the team working to restore our coast. Learn more at www.MississippiRiverDelta.org/football
